

SUPREME COURT RAPS UNIONISTS

Petitions Against Injunction Cases Declined

Action Aimed at Strikers in West Virginia Mines

Pennsylvania Company Files Eviction Suits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—With no explanation for its action the Supreme Court today declined the petition of the United Mine Workers or America for a injunction to stay cases in which the lower courts have caused in the lower courts have joined the union from carrying out certain activities among nonunion miners in West Virginia.

The miners' union will be given full force to the injunction granted by the Federal District Court for Southern West Virginia to the Red Jacks Coal Company, the Borderland and other mining companies.

The mine workers sought to have the highest court pass on the validity of the injunctions, vigorously presented which would prevent them from conducting union work among the nonunion miners.

The coal companies contended the injunctions would only prevent the union organizers from attempting to persuade their nonunion employees to break their contracts and would not interfere with miners from joining the union provided they gave up their present employment.

The injunctions are sweeping, prohibiting the union from interfering

ARROWS CLOSE A BEAR'S CAREER

Hunters Kill Large Beast With Ancient Weapons and Now Plan Lion Quest

MODESTO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Having shot their arrows into the air, and hit their target—a large black bear—four Modesto hunters announced today they will next venture forth in quest of mountain lions.

They shot the bear in the thinly populated region in the Sierra sixty miles above Sonora Saturday. Bruin was brought to earth with six arrows. It weighed 400 pounds.

The hunters are Vernon Baird, Boy Scout executive; Harry G. Clarke, head of Modesto High School shop department; A. B. Downing, principal of Roosevelt school; and J. K. Barnett, Modesto High School shop teacher.

By threats of violence with the non-union miners, from destroying mining property or interfering with the interstate business of the miners' union, the lower courts held the United Mine Workers engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to prevent the interstate shipment of nonunion coal.

MONEY, NOT LIVES

"Whatever losses might come through a flood would be estimated exclusively and entirely in terms of dollars and cents and not in human life."

The Imperial Valley is an integral part of our Commonwealth. It is one of the rich sources of the nation's supply of food products; it is a place in which American citizens are made rich investments; it is a potential source of wealth and well-being to our wealth and population; it is a national asset and as such is entitled to protection.

"It is in the financial interests that the flooding of valuable acreage and the destruction of crops, canals and irrigation works is the Valley is in the present possibility and even probability. With this knowledge they are guarding carefully the extension of credit to farmers and owners in that district."

EViction Suits AGAINST UNIONISTS FILED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17. (AP)—A wage reduction for coal loaders and coke miners employed at its non-union coal and coke company, owned by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation. The new rates, the company said, are put into effect to place as the minimum miners upon the same level as the miners of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, leading nonunion operator in the Pittsburgh district.

VILLAGE MANHACED

"With this sword of uncertainty hanging over the people and the future of the Imperial Valley, the wise dollar is turning away into more dependable fields. It will return only when conditions improve and the touch of flood sophistication.

"In brief, the Imperial Valley is now, so to speak, in a sort of suspended animation, awaiting the magic touch of flood control to release it from this enthralling spell."

"This condition, as described calls for immediate conservation and action. Such action should be taken by the Federal government."

Lumber Steamer With Her Propeller Lost Wins Long Battle With Elements

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 17. (AP)—The steamer Wallingford, disabled off the coast of Oregon near Cape Arago by loss of her propeller Saturday night, is being towed to San Francisco today by the Coast Guard. The cutter, arriving from Eureka, took charge of the Wallingford, ending a twenty-four-hour contest between seamanship and a stormy sea.

Dean Inge Raps 'Brawler' Canon

LONDON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Characterized by Dean Inge of St. Paul as a "brawler," Cardinal O'Connell of St. Michael's Church, meets with scant sympathy in today's press for his stardom descent on St. Paul's yesterday and his immediate retirement. "Is it not a serious and erratic teaching?" was a serious well-intentioned defense of evolution worthy at least of respect.

"I have nothing to say about such a brawler," Dean Inge declared after the cardinal had been received into the religious world in London. "We are entitled to prosecute him, but I do not suppose we shall."

The cardinal, however, condemned Canon Bullock-Webster for his "theatrical performance," and says that the Bishop's sermon on "man's creation" was "a serious well-intentioned defense of evolution worthy at least of respect."

Col. Lindbergh said after he left the White House, "There is more good will be accomplished in the immediate future by the development of continental airways than by the development of the railroads in the Americas."

We need considerably more development in land aerial transportation, and that problem should be solved.

Col. Lindbergh expressed regret that there had been so many tragic endings to recent transoceanic flights. He expressed the opinion that the accident was due to lack of organization, insufficient preparation and lack of experience and equipment. The colonel added, however, that the Federal government should be given to develop long-distance flights over water. Regulations prohibiting such flights would be foolish, he said.

Col. Lindbergh will go to Baltimore tomorrow.

TAX REDUCTION IDEA AMPLIFIED

Ruses. He asserted the present higher rates of taxation were not only more revenue than the old rates, and cited the chief effect of the larger charges had been to drive from the market many millions of pounds of advertising, circuses, midgets, newspaper and similar matter.

FLOOD REPORT MADE

Presentation of the report of the special committee which visited the region affected by the Mississippi River flood was demanded by Marks by Frederick A. Delano, Washington, D. C., chairman, to the effect the committee has been convinced complete financial financing, control and desired results of harnessing the rebellious Mississippi.

The problem, he said, "should be legislated out of the Mississippi River," and approached by the government with the same energy that it used in building the Panama Canal.

In addition to these major issues

Pierce's recommendation included advocacy of voluntary railroad consolidations, immediate return of sequestered alien property, further development of water power, reorganization of women's compensation, ratification of the Lausanne Treaty, stricter and more exact budgeting by local and Federal governments, and mutual interest of trade statistics within any industry, maintenance of the status quo of the Federal Reserve system, private power plant development, control of fire, water, reforestation, immigration restriction, control of waste, power resources, safeguards on immigration restriction, measures for the development of the nation's highways, adoption of code of motor-carrier regulation and private rather than public ownership of utilities.

"Going up" the newer way

RISE a dozen floors at once, or stop at every floor — your ascent is unbroken by sickening starts or jarring stops, in a building having elevators with Westinghouse equipment. Change of speed is gradual and pleasant. With the Westinghouse system of variable voltage control, speed is independent of load, and travel at 800 feet a minute is possible.

Landings level with the floor

From this method of control has grown another contribution to elevator comfort — Westinghouse "Automatic Inductor Control." The operator doesn't jolt nor jockey, trying to level with the floor — he doesn't need to. The car will stop of its own accord, exactly at the floor level — there'll be no "step up" or "step down" to snare heedless heels.

This modern elevator system is an integral part of all the elevators built and installed by the Llewellyn Iron Works of Los Angeles.

THE LADY KILLER

THEY say I am mad. Perhaps I am, but you shall judge. I only know that before they brought me to this grim place of strange sounds and strange sights, I was happy. And now I am of everyone I meet. "Can you oblige me with a knife?" politely, ingratiatingly, at the same time glancing at my finger-nails. But that's rather a bad line of irrelevant things, profess their regret at not having such a thing about them, or pass me by without answering.

Some day I may meet someone who will take me at my word, then perhaps I shall be happy again. For I am not a bad man.

You who read may help me. If this true account of the main incident in my life interests you, and you deem the entertainment is afforded worth the price, perhaps you will send me one by registered post, and I shall be eternally grateful.

My home was made of weather-beaten pine, and was surrounded with a thick thatch of reeds, which grow in abundance along the shores of Northern Queensland. A rude structure, but as I have said, my home, built by my hands, and situated in the most beautiful place in the world. I am sure of this though I have never traveled.

Here I lived, with a cloth about my waist, and an umbrella, and a hand-rolling, smoking, and thinking of many things. The few white people who visited me called me a beachcomber, and that puzzled me still; for now they say that I am mad. How, I ask you, can a beachcomber be mad.

"Looks to me," he said in his soft, persuasive drawl, "looks to me more like a man who has been having a dormouse and a window-shutter."

This anguished me, and I told him of my affliction, and he was struck with fever; she had watched by my bed three days without food. He only laughed and wagged his head.

"And she's the same as the rest," he said when I had finished. "She's the same as the rest."

I told him what the white man had said, and he laughed again, curling his fair mustache, and leering.

"Not for all the world as though I were making advances to one of his barnacles."

Jack Dempsey Will Attend Fight Between Loayza and King Tut at Olympic Tonight

CHILEAN BOXER IN DEBUT HERE

Former Heavy King Will be Guest of Honor

Joe Dundee and Ace Hudkins Will Watch Bout

South American is Favored to Capture Verdict

There will be quite a gathering of ring royalty at the Olympic tonight when Stanislaus Loayza and King Tut begin to throw leather hither and yon.

Jack Dempsey will be a "sheller" to the boxers from the ring. Joe Dundee, lightweight champion of the world, and Ace Hudkins, who believes he soon will be a favorite to be present.

Loayza is the most excited about. He has more boosters than any boxer who ever migrated from New York to the Pacific Coast. "When you see Loayza you will see a fighter," is the opinion of everyone.

CHILEAN IS FAVORITE. The Chilean is truly a favorite over Tut, although the Egyptian-named scrapper is not without credentials himself.

Tut's best fight is a knockout of Danny Kramer, a sensational scrap with Doc Sennel and a defeat—close shave—to Jackie Fields east.

In San Francisco, Tut whipped Billy Alger, Sammy Campagne and drew with Tommy Colle. In St. Paul a few months ago Tut met a newspaper draw with Billy Petrolle.

That isn't a bad record to study, especially the Petrolle bout, when the Argo Express is rated with the best in the world.

Loayza is a Basque-Spaniard and Indian. He is built like a ring classic and the spreading shoulders and thin legs.

Since he came to this country from Iquique, Chile, in 1924, he has been a sensation. He quickly became one of New York's most popular boxers. He drew $60,000 with Phil McGraw when they boxed a draw and in a rematch the gate went to $10,000.

For another reason than the fact that Loayza had Ace Hudkins to a draw, the Chilean would have enough credentials to be a favorite to St. Paul's King Tut. Hudkins—not Loayza—was lucky to get the draw verdict.

The Los Angeles boys will be situated front studying Loayza closely. They are Johnny Adams, Jackie Fields and Muhy Callahan. All of these fellows want to crack at the Chilean. He is a great fighter himself that even makes his opponents show to advantage.

COULDN'T CATCH TERRIS. However, only one of Loayza's opponents ever looked so good as he did when he beat the world's best boxer, Loayza, doing a splendid job of running.

To the credit of Williams he defeated Walcott Langford, the highly ballyhooed Chicagoan, having him on the boards three times.

Jimmy Goss and Joe Moto most in the semi-final. They are boxers at 180 pounds. The two fours are Dick Dundee vs. Evans Fortune and Sandy Garrison vs. Johnny Pritchard.

Garrison is another South American fighter and is one of the best prospects in the colony of youngsters.

Tunney keeps his floor, while the referee was shooing Jack to a neutral corner. When referee went to the time-keeper, he took up the count at "one," although the time-keeper's toll had reached four.

Walter M. George, manager of the Illinois organization, declared Leo F. Flynn, manager of Jack Dempsey, had failed to register as manager of Dempsey with the Illinois state office. Dempsey was not permitted to make a formal appeal. George said Flynn had promised Dempsey would present his side of the case but had never done so.

According to the report of Secretary George, the N.B.A. congratulated the Illinois organization and declared a dead lock.

A new rule, incorporated into the N.B.A. rules, stipulates that when a boxer fails or is knocked out of the ring, he shall be allowed to recover to his feet if he does not or is unable to do so, the referee shall count him out.

The proposed battle between Joe Dundee, lightweight champion, and Ace Hudkins in California in the near future is expected to provide a problem for the commissioners. Both are under suspension. Dundee was eliminated with the N.B.A., although Dundee was in the good graces of the association when he won his crown from Pete Lazio.

Pelton, Payne and Walker. Likewise, the Potts ought to be in an average mood, after one defeat, to have a 7-0 record. Redlands, while Ponca, will probably enter the game a bit cocky unless Nixon uses a horse whip or something of this sort. The Potts will, of course, probably use every device in his repertoire to bring them out of the fog.

MEHNAZ TO TRY AGAIN

LONG BEACH, Oct. 17. (AP)—Another attempt to swim the English Channel this week will be made by Miss Mercedes Oelitz, 33,ondine, who recently was reported to have eighth attempt but whose swim was never officially certified.

King of Swat Introduced to Queen of Eggs

OMAHA, Oct. 17. (AP)—When Babe Ruth of the baseball world, here with his teammate, Lou Gehrig, met the Babe Ruth of the poultry world he smiled and said: "Looks like an egg for breakfast."

He was not disappointed, as he received the one hundred and seventeenth egg laid by Lady Norfolk on the one hundred and seventeenth consecutive day for a record. The presentation was made at the baseball grounds before 4500 fans.

The egg, tied with a ribbon, lodged in a jewelry box and inscribed "From the Queen of Eggs to the King of Hitlers," was sent to New York. There it will be drained, filled with a preservative and retained as a souvenir.

is excited about. He has more boosters than any boxer who ever migrated from New York to the Pacific Coast. "When you see Loayza you will see a fighter," is the opinion of everyone.

CHILEAN IS FAVORITE. The Chilean is truly a favorite over Tut, although the Egyptian-named scrapper is not without credentials himself.

Tut's best fight is a knockout of Danny Kramer, a sensational scrap with Doc Sennel and a defeat—close shave—to Jackie Fields east.

In San Francisco, Tut whipped Billy Alger, Sammy Campagne and drew with Tommy Colle. In St. Paul a few months ago Tut met a newspaper draw with Billy Petrolle.

That isn't a bad record to study, especially the Petrolle bout, when the Argo Express is rated with the best in the world.

Loayza is a Basque-Spaniard and Indian. He is built like a ring classic and the spreading shoulders and thin legs.

Since he came to this country from Iquique, Chile, in 1924, he has been a sensation. He quickly became one of New York's most popular boxers. He drew $60,000 with Phil McGraw when they boxed a draw and in a rematch the gate went to $10,000.

For another reason than the fact that Loayza had Ace Hudkins to a draw, the Chilean would have enough credentials to be a favorite to St. Paul's King Tut. Hudkins—not Loayza—was lucky to get the draw verdict.

The Los Angeles boys will be situated front studying Loayza closely. They are Johnny Adams, Jackie Fields and Muhy Callahan. All of these fellows want to crack at the Chilean. He is a great fighter himself that even makes his opponents show to advantage.

COULDN'T CATCH TERRIS. However, only one of Loayza's opponents ever looked so good as he did when he beat the world's best boxer, Loayza, doing a splendid job of running.

To the credit of Williams he defeated Walcott Langford, the highly ballyhooed Chicagoan, having him on the boards three times.

Jimmy Goss and Joe Moto most in the semi-final. They are boxers at 180 pounds. The two fours are Dick Dundee vs. Evans Fortune and Sandy Garrison vs. Johnny Pritchard.

Garrison is another South American fighter and is one of the best prospects in the colony of youngsters.

Tunney keeps his floor, while the referee was shooing Jack to a neutral corner. When referee went to the time-keeper, he took up the count at "one," although the time-keeper's toll had reached four.

Walter M. George, manager of the Illinois organization, declared Leo F. Flynn, manager of Jack Dempsey, had failed to register as manager of Dempsey with the Illinois state office. Dempsey was not permitted to make a formal appeal. George said Flynn had promised Dempsey would present his side of the case but had never done so.

According to the report of Secretary George, the N.B.A. congratulated the Illinois organization and declared a dead lock.

A new rule, incorporated into the N.B.A. rules, stipulates that when a boxer fails or is knocked out of the ring, he shall be allowed to recover to his feet if he does not or is unable to do so, the referee shall count him out.

The proposed battle between Joe Dundee, lightweight champion, and Ace Hudkins in California in the near future is expected to provide a problem for the commissioners. Both are under suspension. Dundee was eliminated with the N.B.A., although Dundee was in the good graces of the association when he won his crown from Pete Lazio.

Pelton, Payne and Walker. Likewise, the Potts ought to be in an average mood, after one defeat, to have a 7-0 record. Redlands, while Ponca, will probably enter the game a bit cocky unless Nixon uses a horse whip or something of this sort. The Potts will, of course, probably use every device in his repertoire to bring them out of the fog.

Dundee Opens Training Camp

The Dundee training camp at the Beach Club will be officially opened this afternoon at 3 o'clock when the winter-weather training camp steps into the ring with one of his sparring partners. This is the first time the Beach Club has ever been used by any boxer as a training camp and a ring and complete boxing facilities have been installed.

Dundee completed his training at the Manhattan gym yesterday and moved out, bag and baggage, to the Riveted Drive quarters of the Dundee Drive camp. These will be the Dundee opening. The camp will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER BILL HENRY

It is quite evident that the Trojans have had considerable trouble in the way of brushing up on defense against the forward game, as the Cardinals scored two touchdowns on them by a margin of only one third. The Trojans, however, have been pointing for this contest since they started practice in August and both are expected to be stronger than was the case last year when the smoke-eaters romped away with an easy victory. Vic Kelley is coaching the corps and the traffic boys will be Bill Blevins and Lou Dero, the carnation-wearing wrestling impresario, is assured of giving the local mat fans as good a show as possible.

COLUMBUS (O.) Oct. 17. (Executive)—There will be a sharp distinction without a radical difference in the prohibition planks of the Democratic and Republican national conventions of 1928.

So predicts Senator Fess, Republi-

MILLERSBURG (Ky.) Oct. 17. (Executive)—Seventy-five-year-old instructions left by Dr. Miller, founder of this town, but whose initials have been forgotten, concerning a mysterious sealed room in his once spacious home here had been respected. Tonight the room was opened and it was discovered that Dr. Miller prepared a gigantic straw on his neighbor. Dr. Miller ordered that the room of those things and expect to survive. "Then where enters the sharp distinction?"

"Just here," the Senator replied. "I am quite confident that both parties are in agreement on the Constitution and the status of the Republican party will go far in that respect than the Democrats. By that I mean it is a certainty that the Democratic party has a desire for law enforcement. That would be its intended to satisfy the drys. It would enable a wet Democrat such as Gov. Smith of New York to accept such a pliant dry nomination because he could assume the oath of the Presidency without pledging himself to enforce the law of the land."

The Republican platform undoubtedly will be more progressive and serve its prohibition plank. That is to say, it will go beyond some mere declaration for law enforcement. Our party's progressive drys for many years. Our 1928 declaration will be intended to carry us a step farther in the cause of national temperance."

"Do you mean amendment of the Volstead Act as to 'tighten some of its provisions, a progressive development of administrative machinery to render existing provisions more effective,' the reporter asked.

Senator Fess responded quickly that the Republican platform will commit the party to the latter proposition.

"It will be a pledge that the enforcement of enforcement shall be utilized to the advantage of more effective administration of existing laws," he said. "rather than any amendment or legislative action."

Representatives of the Republican party in Congress may be relied upon to sponsor or support such measures as the future may disclose necessary to an efficient administration of the law."

"But while both parties endorse the general principle of law enforcement under the caption of 'Prohibition,' they do not share the effect of destroying prohibition as a national or political issue for 1928 campaign purposes."

"I do not wish to imply for a moment that the prohibition issue is a political issue," Senator Fess returned. "I believe it is settled, but the Republican party, having taken the lead in the temperance movement, is going to continue in the vanguard of progress in that sphere of politics."

of its Supremacy

Hudson design attains its great margins of supremacy in performance and reliability, only because it is accompanied by an equally pre-eminent leadership of quality in materials and workmanship. The great suppliers will tell you that their materials are the finest extant in the industry of the earliest cars. Its precision manufacture is carried to limits as fine as automobile practice has ever achieved. And its standards are guarded by inspection as careful, and watchful, as these rigid principles of quality themselves.

DEDICATION OF
TEMPLE NEARMormon Structure at Mesa

MESSA (Ariz.) Oct. 17. (Exclusive)

The ninth temple of the Mormon Church will be dedicated next Sunday. It is a majestic structure that has been erected within a twenty-acre tract on the eastern edge of this city. A week will be consumed in the exercises, conducted by President Heber J. Grant, who will come from Salt Lake City accompanied by a large number of other church dignitaries.

As many as 30,000 members of the faith are expected to attend, brought by special trains from all parts of the West, with 2000 persons from Los Angeles. Arizona, with a village of Snowflake 500 will attend, to camp on the temple grounds, while every other Mormon settlement in the State is to be represented.

Three trainloads are to be made up in the Latter Day Saints' wards of Los Angeles, Hollywood, Long Beach and San Pedro, including 2000 from California, a choir, which, at sunrise on the first day, will present on the temple terrace, Evan Stephen's oratorio, "The Vision." BOARD ENDORSES MEANS PAROLE

National Politicians Stirred by Action of Body

Former Secret Service Man in Federal Prison

Rise to Wealth Rapid in Post-War Times

BY ROBERT E. ARMSTRONG

"Times" Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (Exclusive)—All politicians in Washington were startled when formal announcement was made today that the Federal Parole Board had recommended for parole Gaston B. Means, former secret-service man who now is serving a second Federal sentence in Atlanta penitentiary. Means first was sentenced for violation of the prohibition law and later for a conspiracy to procure funds from certain firms to prevent asserted Federal prosecution. He was fined in the first case, and in addition to the original sentence, the two fines of $50,000 each have not been paid.

In case his parole is approved by Atty.-Gen. Smith and President Coolidge, it is expected he will take "the pauper's oath" as provided by law in such cases; he might escape entirely from both fines and step out of prison with no financial responsibility.

The original movement to prevent the release of Means was stimulated here with the news that his parole had been recommended by the prison board.

Word went to nations of Europe first at one another's throats in 1914, earning a precarious living, usually as a private investigator. Means rose to fame in 1918 as a secret agent. In September, 1923, the Treasury Department filed in the courts here a lien for $267,614 against Means' home at 903 Shirreffs Street, a fashionable Quaker representation of the unpaid income taxes for the years 1921, 1922 and 1923. The Treasury Department, of course, is silent as to its sources of information. At the feature it presented indicated that it had evidence that Means' income in the three years was considerably more than $100,000.

GIVEN HIGH POSITION
When Harry Daugherty became Attorney-General of the United States in 1921, he appointed William J. Burns, then the head of the W. J. Burns International Detective Agency, as chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. Almost immediately Burns appointed Means as one of his subordinates. In 1923, Means asserted that he held credentials as a detective not only from the Department of Justice, but from the Alien Property Custodian, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who then had charge of prohibition enforcement, and from the W. J. Burns Detective Agency as well.

The government never collected in full the $267,614 in income tax because Means' home was worth far less than that. The lien was filed at the time Means was under indictment in New York for the crime of offering bribery and a $100,000 deal, illicit liquor, on which indictment he was convicted subsequently. He is now serving the resulting sentence and has spent something more than two years in prison. At the time of his sentence, which included fines aggregating $20,000, he pleaded poverty and represented himself as indigent.

Means, a native of Cooper, N. C., before he became involved in the secret-service story of the war, had figured already in one tragic episode. He had been a chief agent of Concord in the role of secretary to Mrs. Maud A. King, a wealthy Chicago widow, who was involved in litigation over the administration of her late husband's estate. Mrs. King and Mrs. King one day were alone in a forest near Concord and were engaged in a subsequent related in an affair with a revolver.

Mrs. King was fatally shot and Means reported that she had shot herself. He was indicted for murder in the first degree, but the jury, after a long and hard-fought trial, found him not guilty.

The case was complicated by the fact that charges were pending at the time before the authorities against Means accusing him of forging the name of Mrs. King and embezzling her funds. This statement was made in a letter which Edward Swann, at the time District Attorney of New York, addressed to Atty.-Gen. Daugherty in 1921. Mr. Swann made the letter public three years later, namely, in 1924, when Means was the star witness before the Wheeler Committee of the Senate investigating Atty.-Gen. Daugherty. Mr. Swann offered his letter as proof that Daugherty must have known of Means' true character two years before Means was dismissed from the Department of Justice.

FANTASTIC STORY

When the Senate committee under the direction of Senator Overman, was investigating German propaganda in the United States in 1924, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, of the Department of Justice's Bureau of Investigation, testified that in 1914 and 1915 Means was doing espionage work for the German government, in association with Capt. Boe Ed, the naval attaché of the German Embassy, who subsequently, was sent home for violating American neutrality laws. Later, Hauptmann, who was a German, testifying in his own behalf, denied this charge but admitted that as an operative of the W. J. Burns Detective Agency he had done detective work for one of the agency's clients, the Hamburg-American Steamship Company and had met Boy-Ed frequently. Means also denied Blasphemous statements made by Hauptmann, received cash payments from Dr. Rumley on behalf of the German government when the Wheeler committee in 1924 investigated Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's administration and brought out the story of the operations of the "Outfit gang." Means appeared as the chief witness before the committee and the department. He told a number of sensational and astounding tales, but subsequently gave out public statements that contradicted a great part of what he had told. He asserted with considerable theatricalism at one time before the committee that he had been robbed of certain papers which he had given to the committee. Other evidence later presented showed that his story was an entire fabrication and that he had not been robbed.

In the foregoing only a few of the many strange incidents in the career of Means have been mentioned. The full story would require many thousand words to tell. But the fact that the parole board sitting at the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta has recommended Means for a parole is a view of what Washington knows about him that makes the national capital sit up and wonder.

Within the Administration Offices you will find a complete system of most unusual character—oil and water systems showing in detail the famous Benmar Hills COMPLETE CITY PLAN—the feature of this property which gives it nation-wide interest among experts, and has brought it recognition by them as one of the six most noteworthy community developments in the entire United States.

Then was written one of the most interesting chapters in American Community history!

This property—carefully planned to accommodate a city of 150,000 people—lies directly in the path of growth which a community already well established had to follow—the beautiful, thriving, fast growing city of Burbank.

And Burbank, recognizing the unique and priceless value of having its entire future development shaped along ideal lines, officially recognized and adopted that Complete City Plan. The city authorities accepted a deed to the 20-acre Civic Center in Benmar Hills, with the provision that all public buildings such as the new Burbank City Hall and other similar structures shall be erected therein. They approved the dedication of the entire street system. The new $500,000 Burbank High School was erected on a Benmar Hills site and another location purchased in Benmar Hills for a grammar school. In these and other ways, Burbank has officially and definitely adopted as her own, the Benmar Hills Complete City Plan.

Thus the purchaser of a homesite in Benmar Hills finds that not only the owners of the great project, but also the entire city are co-operating to make his home all that he desires it to be. He is forever protected as a taxpayer against heavy assessments to widen and straighten streets and provide public building sites—he is assured of every educational and cultural factor essential to complete well balanced community and home life.

PASADENA LOSES USEFUL CITIZEN

David J. Macpherson Dies Late Sunday

Started Mt. Lowe Railway Project

For Forty Years Resident of Crown City

PASADENA, Oct. 17.—David J. Macpherson, former president of the Pasadena Board of Education and a resident of this city for the last forty years, died suddenly late last night at his home in the Highlandwood street, following a heart attack.

Mr. Macpherson, a civil engineer, made the surveys which started the project now known as the Mt. Lowe Railway.

His original surveys were made on Mt. Wilson, but he later interested Prof. Theodore Lowe in the scheme and the operations of the railway were switched to Mt. Lowe.

Since his retirement from business fifteen years ago, Mr. Macpherson, despite his considerable time to writing, recently publishing a book on "Gold Basis and Gold," has now been translating for publication in France.

He was a native of London, Ontario, Canada, born January 12, 1884. Mr. Macpherson was a graduate of Cornell University.

He leaves a son, Donald T. Macpherson, and two daughters, Mrs. Agnes M. Elliott and Margaret V. Macpherson. His wife died in 1924 and his son, Donald, was killed in action in the World War. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, October 25, at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Macpherson was a member, will officiate.

Crown City to Make Test Case of New Method

PASADENA, Oct. 17.—The possibility that cities may be able to institute public improvements without the formality of bond elections is seen in the action being taken before the State Supreme Court by the city of Pasadena in connection with the proposed widening of Holly street.

The city took the matter before the State Supreme Court for original action by asking a writ of mandamus to restrain the city auditor from starting the proceedings, which are being carried on under the Matson Act.

According to word received here today, the Supreme Court ordered Muñiz to appear in Sacramento November 1, to show cause why he should not use in cases where the property involved. To bring about a test case, he will refuse to take the action.

The proposal is to place city-owned property in the assessment district, levy a heavy tax against it and spread the cost of the improvement over the whole city. This method could be used in cases where the improvement is clearly a public necessity, according to Muñiz.

In the present case, Muñiz says it is to be used and extended in order to provide a broad thoroughfare leading to the new City Hall.

Files Damage Suit Against Stage Company

VENTURA, Oct. 17.—Damages of $25,000 are being asked from the Pickwick Stages, Northern Division, for the death of Miguel Perez, 40 years of age, employee of the Rancho Sepe, who was fatally injured on October 10, 1926, in a collision with another man for whom he was riding with two other men colliding with the stage.

The suit is being brought by Ferdinand Wong, Antonio Gurrira Perez, and four small children.

According to the complaint, Perez was riding in a car driven by Gregorio Sanchez, and another passenger, Felipe Perez, Angelas Perez, Margarita Perez and Felipe Perez, through their "windings" on the Gaviota Act.

The stage and horse payments together with large returns being sent out regularly to local vegetable growers of vast benefit to this portion of Southern California.

Mayor Stands for Re-election

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 17.—Mayor Herman Michel of Santa Monica announced his candidacy today for re-election to the office of Commissioner of Public Safety, which carries with it the post of City Mayor. The business career of Michel, born December 4, and the term of office is four years.

Announcement that Judge Fred H. Tait, one of the leading members of the bar of Santa Monica, and the author of the Superior Court bench, will manage Michel's campaign, was made at the City Hall today to indicate an interesting change in the Municipal political schemes of things in the recent election last year, when Mayor Michel was elected. Judge Tait was one of the strongest leaders of the opposition to the recall and the candidate of the petitioners, Michel.

During his term of office, Mayor Michel has had a host of friends, but his record of merit merits his retention at the head of Santa Monica's municipal affairs," Judge Tait stated today.

Other candidates who have made part of the candidacy are James F. De Borda and Charles H. Brown.

FISHERMEN'S PARADISE IN VENTURA COUNTY

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 17.—More than 100,000 trout fry were planted in the streams of Ventura county yesterday afternoon by members of Ventura county's Fish and Game Protective Association.

Two creeks, a salmon's haven, was planted with 60,000 by a group under the supervision of County Warden Walter Emerick, while another group planted 40,000 in Santa Paula Creek with 47,000 rainbow and Loch Leve trout. These two creeks already thronging with trout, should be next year truly a fisherman's paradise, unless circumstances come to kill off the young fish.

AT AGE OF 92

SAN FERNANDO, Oct. 17.—Funeral services for Mrs. Melinda Myers, who celebrated her 92nd birthday on September 19, were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church this morning. Interment was made in the Glendale Cemetery. Mrs. Myers, who died Friday, was a pioneer resident of San Fernando Valley, having come here forty years ago. BANK ISSUES IN DECLINE; OILS UNEVEN

Giannini Stocks Sell Off; Union and Richfield Close Lower; Shell-Union Gains

Bank stocks were weak on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, the decline being led by the Giannini issues. Bank of Italy reacted unusually well, closing at 114 1/2 and closed 6 1/4 points net lower at 242 1/4. Bancitaly Corporation gave a better account of itself and closed 1 1/2 points lower at 114 1/2. United Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco, the spectacular advancing issue of last week, lost 8 1/2 points to a low and closed at 104 1/2. Los Angeles First National, which had closed at 97 1/2, Pacific National Company closed 5 1/2, a point net lower at 126 1/2.

Southern California Edison issues again were inactive, but moved irregularly. Union Oil of California sold 3 1/4 of a point to 42 1/2, and Richfield closed 1 1/4 of a point lower at 19 1/2. After a dip, Standard Oil of California Petroleum added a fraction to the record high price at 104 1/4.

Oil stocks were inactive, but moved irregularly. Union Oil of California sold 3 1/4 of a point to 42 1/2, and Richfield closed 1 1/4 of a point lower at 19 1/2. After a dip, Standard Oil of California Petroleum added a fraction to the record high price at 104 1/4.

Remaining outside of this hypothesis, the market was inactive, with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, serving the San Francisco Bay district, the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, and several smaller properties in the northern part of the State.

MOODY'S REVIEW.

Moody's weekly review of financial conditions in its current issue says in part:

Any pessimistic influences from the group of banking issues do not appear to be warranted yet, because this has been accompanied by an almost equal growth in the lending ability of the major banking corporations and others. This lending power has not yet been overstrained.

The physical volume of trade should reach its maximum this year, and the demand for credit will probably increase to a minimum of 10 per cent.

Businesses, however, will not be able to meet this demand, and their loans ought not to be increased too rapidly.

Thus far, however, the items in Moody's review have been plainly shown that the Federal Reserve Board has been fostering low interest and discount rates. This policy has been good business and good banking, but it has not promoted our country's exports of farm products and our national prosperity. Unused credit facilities are of sufficient magnitude so that, if this policy is adhered to, the money market will doubtless remain easy.

Five Autoists in Battle With Highwaymen

Forty-five Arrests Made by Vice Squad

Two daylight bandits yesterday held up C. R. Payne, a chauffeur for the McDonald Limousine Car Company, at 246 Figueroa Boulevard, took possession of the expensive closed car he was driving, and fled without attempting to obtain any of Payne's personal effects.

Payne told officers that he received a call to go to Culver City to pick up a man. After meeting the man at the appointed spot Payne was directed to proceed to 249 Figueroa Boulevard, just north of Beverly Boulevard, to call for another passenger.

Upon arriving at that address, Payne stated, a man came out of the house and the two of them he held him up and took possession of the automobile.

With numerous small robberies reported throughout the city Sunday night, the police squad have received orders from Chief of Detectives Herman Cline to increase their vigilance in the fight to reduce the activity of bandits in Los Angeles.

A sensational battle between four bandits and a party of five persons at MacArthur Park early yesterday morning was reported to police by Charles Lockhardt, 2424 House Boulevard. Lockhardt told police that the bandits, who turned out to be the two bandits can lined up to be searched at the point of guns. One of the bandits seized a diamond ring from the toe of boy, 10, son of a member of the police force, and the latter struck the bandit in the eye. A general fight followed in which the bandits fled.

Forty-five persons were arrested by the police squad in week-end raids, according to police reports. Of this number eight were arrested for gambling, fourteen for violation of the Eight Act, sixteen as social vagrants, and three on miscellaneous charges.

According to Chief of Detectives Herman Cline, 25, the 10-year-old boy, arrested as a suspect in the $75,000 Power Bureau hold-up, probably will be released, no direct evidence linking him with the crime having been found.

SIXTH WIFE FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

COMPLAINT CHARGES HUSBAND WITH ROASTING OF HIS CHARM FOR WOMEN

As far as Edna H. Fletcher is concerned, Harvey Fletcher may take himself wife No. 7 almost any time now.

According to her suit for divorce yesterday, filed for her by Attorney S. S. Hahn, Fletcher boasted to her that she was the sixth woman he had married.

"I can have any woman I want," he declared, Mrs. Fletcher says. She charged cruelty.

WHAT'S UNDER THIS AUTO HOOD?

These Boys Are Going to Find Out

At Attention
Jacob Riss High School students receiving class instruction along lines of their peculiar flair.

JUST because a boy is not interested in proving theorems, conjugating Latin verbs or classical history is no reason for classing him as stupid or uninteresting, in the opinion of the Board of Education of Los Angeles, and in support of that theory it has established the Jacob Riss High School for Boys at Sixty-ninth and Main streets, where those not academically inclined may develop the tastes for which they have a particular flair.

The school came as the result of an intensive study made of boys of this type, who have had difficulty in the city schools, according to Homer K. Watson, principal of the Jacob Riss School. It is said to be the only school of its kind in the West.

A large percentage of pupils, principally boys, stop school long before they finish high school, Watson said. They are missed in an academic surrounding, are often anxious to get out and go to work and no one has time to help solve their problems.

The Jacob Riss school is designed to meet the needs of the boys not interested in the regular high-school education or the certain amount of work also is necessary. In addition to the regular school, the boys will be given opportunities to continue the regular high-school course of study, the school specializes in auto shop, wood shop, printing, cooking and agriculture. The school will be open full operation only after the first part of September and already 200 students are enrolled, with more coming every day.

There are also fine athletic fields for the boys, and a swimming pool.

Watson says the only possible reason he can see that might cause the boys to leave the school is that they are not interested in the education offered, he says, that they rather like the idea of a feminine gallery to play to in their athletic competitions with other schools.

OLD ESPEE LAND DEAL STIRS

British Concern Asks Sale Lapsed Forty Years be Consummated Now Title is Perfected

Echoes of a deal in 1885 in which a British company bought 50,000 acres of Mohave Desert land in Southern California from the Southern Pacific Railway Company, granted to the latter by the government, is being aired in Superior Judge McComb's court.

The first purchase was made by is that of the Security Trust and Savings Bank for the British company, represented by James M. Coomburn, Albert C. Meyer and the Southern Pacific Company for rescission of the cancellation of contract and for payment of damages.

In other words, the British concern, which grew tired of waiting from 1885 to 1908 for title to the 2641 acres, now wants to go through with the deal again. The land, valued at $5 an acre twenty-four years ago, now averages $5 an acre, or a total of $22,000.

The land was in 1903 by the British firm with full knowledge of the situation.

Attorney Frank Thunen is appearing for the defendants and Attorneys Campbell and Anderson and Anderson airport site, as the prices range from $1,000,000 to $8,000,000, although all sites are not suitable for the installation plan. Some of the councilmen believe a bond issue should be asked and that possibly the bonds will be used to help in procuring the site, the city will lease locations on the airport for companies using the field for planes and for manufacturers of aircraft.

Among the last sites to be offered is the Gratzide tract of 456 acres near Puente, twenty-two miles from the city. The price put on this land by the owner, A. G. Alvarado, is $625 an acre.

SITE OFFERED FREE

The Council was notified yesterday by N. K. Williams that there is a movement on foot to obtain the councilmen's support of the Council's plan to lease Los Angeles 640 acres known as Alondra Park for an airport. That site is southeast of Hawthorne, bounded by Figueroa Avenue, Prairie Avenue, Riverside-Redondo Boulevard and Cypress Avenue, to be known as Hollywood-Palos Verdes Field. In case this donation is made, the city should acquire 320 acres adjoining the site on the north as also to have an airport.

The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce has urged the Council to purchase an airport site in the San Fernando Valley, and to offer it to the city.

Some of the councilmen are inclined to favor the site in the San Fernando Valley, and to also purchase a smaller field, preferably in the San Fernando Valley to be used by planes on the northern mail and passenger routes.

CITY DISMISSES JACOBSON CASE

The testimony dragging along for weeks. Although Jacobson previously announced he would take the witness stand in his own defense, he did not appear at a time.

The police testified at the trial that they were informed that "wild parties" in the presence of small parties were being held at the Bunker Street address, which proved to be Mrs. Grimes' home.

Going to the police to investigate, the police testified, they looked through a window and saw a man whom they later identified as Councilman Jacobson, caretaking Mrs. Grimes' home.

Going to the police to investigate, the police testified, they looked through a window and saw a man whom they later identified as Councilman Jacobson, caretaking Mrs. Grimes' home.

Later the pair went to a bedroom, the officers said.

DOOR BATTERED DOWN

The door was battered down and with the door the Jimmie door turned on again. Capt. Wallis declared Jacobson was partially disrobed and Mrs. Grimes in a condition of undress.

Attorney Councilman Jacobson said he went to the place to discuss street conditions with Mrs. Grimes and that the two went out and had dinner at a restaurant in completing the asserted "frame-up."

During the trial the wife of the Councilman was stricken ill and confined to her bed at home for many days.

While the trial proceeded, Mrs. Grimes was stricken with a nervous illness and upon recovery from that was severely burned in a gas-stove explosion. Later she underwent an operation for the removal of her ovaries.

Councilman Jacobson's main defense at the trial was that he was a watchman on a ranch in Arcadia, that he was once foreman of the ranch and had been given a large sum of money, but lost it in ventures in South America. A few years ago the former foreman returned. McDonald, a stepson of Councilman Jacobson, is said to have interjected himself in the fight, cutting Chaves and in the melee shot his stepson.

According to Deputy Sheriff Medina, who investigated, a drinking party was given at the East Fourth Street home of Arthur and Arthur Alvarado, stepson of Councilman Jacobson. Chaves is said to have admitted the stabbing, is held in the County Jail on suspicion of murder.

Fatal Wound Self-Inflicted

Charles Bentley, 67, of Arcadia, was found dead in his room by another employee, F. McDonald, last night. Examination disclosed an apparently self-inflicted bullet wound in the heart, and police report the man was in a state of collapse when he was found.

Bentley's only known relative is a son, Charles, of Compton, and the Coroner is attempting to communicate with her.

Workers untangling the city offices un-

They represent an old but unprofitable voting for Tammany. There's a City Hall plugs and levers.

NOT SO PEACEFUL

Mrs. Ross Schwimmer, who was one of the sponsors for the Ford peace ship, has been denied papers of citizenship in this country. As a tireless blend of atheist, socialist and pacifist it was figured impossible to ever make her into a patriotic and peace-loving American citizen. The peace ship contributed nothing to the rest and welfare of the nation. The trip was largely a fight from start to finish.

THE BETTER AMERICA

Officials of the immigration department hope to speed up their machinery so that they can deport a maximum average of a thousand undesirables a month. Knowledge of this should inspire our aliens to better behavior. Instead of plotting against the nation and denouncing the government, they must exhibit the material of which decent and orderly citizens may be made.

America must be the world's show window and not its garbage pile.

STUDENTS THEN AND NOW

An optimistic educator declares that the pupils in the schools of today are better behaved than their fathers ever were. Very little punishment is necessary and the teachers have less trouble in enforcing discipline. It would be a fine thing if this educator could satisfy the world with the truth of his contention. The taxpayers are putting up a magnificent array of costly school buildings and supplying the pupils with every device known to the world of sport.
All these things tend to make students well disciplined, studious and appreciative.

END OF THE WORLD

The alarmists who say that the world is becoming overpopulated and will soon be unable to produce what it needs for consumption are digging up undue worry for themselves. There will be plenty of figs and spinach for all their days and even the next generation can have no possible cause for alarm. The world has its war, its motor cars, its planes and its grade crossings to cut down the population and flood, fire, famine, pestilence, the whirlwind and the quake all take their grim toll of humanity. In the midst of so much death they grieve about the abundance of life?

SUN STEEL SKIRTS

They are making steel wire so fine and so silken in texture that it may be woven into dress goods as filmy as chiffon.
If the processes can be extended and cheapened the day may come when our women can be apparelled in real metal. There would be less worry over the hazards of the "solid South" continuing for so long that Democratic leaders in the North have raised an incessant clamor against the traditional

THE DEMOCRATIC TWO-THIRDS

cratic "solid South" has been too weak to name a Democratic candidate for President in the national convention, but always strong enough to prevent the rest of the convention from naming a candidate distasteful to the southern delegates. Such

BUTLER IN ERROR AGAIN
Only by the fact that Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's western horizon appears to be located at Hoboken can his repeated attempts to stir up prohibition as an issue in the next Presidential campaign be explained. To the great mass of the American people outside a little fringe along a small portion of the Atlantic seaboard, prohibition is not an issue but a closed in-dental. It is true that because of lack of State co-operation, its enforcement is at its worst in New York, New Jersey and Maryland, but everywhere else wet spots are few and isolated and conditions are improving rapidly.

It cannot be predicted, of course, what the Republican national platform of 1928 may or may not contain, but the stand of a party is taken on any issue as much by the character of an opinion of the men it chooses for leaders as by platform declarations, and the principal leaders of the Republican party are unequivocally for the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement. If the 1928 convention should choose to ignore the question altogether no one would have any doubt in the matter. Just as the Republican party is predominantly dry, judged by its leadership, the retirement of McAdoo leaves the Democratic party, for the time being at least, with a tendency to wetness on the part of its principal candidates, though with a dry majority in the portion of the country where most of the Democratic vote comes from.

If there is any evasion of the prohibition law in 1928, admitting for the sake of argument that there is or can be such an issue, it will obviously be on the part of some wet Smith or Ritchie, trying to convince the dry South that he is as sound as he seems.

Dr. Butler is one of a small group of very vociferous wetas, self-deluded that the noise they are making is the voice of the American people. The great body of honest, sober and law-abiding American citizens is not talking on the subject, but their minds are made up and when they speak at the ballot box, Dr. Butler and his friends are going to be astonished.

Dr. Butler's dictum that "a declaration for enforcement is a declaration for lawlessness" is a paradox in form only. In reality, as Dr. Butler would discover if he came west of the Hudson, it is an absurdity. There is law enforcement over a large area, and that area is extending, not contracting. Lawlessness is being put down steadily.

TO CLEAN ITS HOUSE

The California State Bar, a self-governing corporation created by the last Legislature, is now getting ready to function by the election of its Board of Governors, and soon will be able to take up the problem of raising legal standards, which in some matters have been deplorably low.

The possible effect of the State Bar's action upon the crime situation is the phase in which the public is most vitally interested.
No studies of crime and criminals have been able to escape the conclusion that next to the loopholes in the law, itself, which permit criminals to escape, the greatest encouragement to crime has been the number of lawyers willing, for a consideration, to hold those loopholes open and to tear new ones, and to engage in quasi-criminal and even criminal activities themselves on behalf of their clients.

If the California State Bar can rid itself of the crooks within the profession, it will go a long way toward reducing the number of crooks outside the profession. That the organization will be able to do this is the belief of its sponsor, Senator Frank Weller, and the hope of the rest of California.
Members of the bar have long contended that the bar itself would clean house if given the power to do so, and have declared that the disbarment or suspension of attorneys, except in the most flagrant cases, was virtually impossible under pre-existing law. The power has now been put into the hands that have been asking for it.

The Weller law, briefly, provides that the corporation, of which every practicing lawyer of the State is required to be an active member, shall fix the qualifications for admission to practice, shall formulate and enforce rules of professional conduct, discipline and disbar attorneys for cause, and provide local committees to hear complaints.
In the conduct of investigations the corporation's governing body is empowered to take evidence, to administer binding oaths, and to require the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents.

These are broad powers, and to justify the State in granting them the new corporation must see that they are wisely used.
The wise use to which they can first be put is the ousting of shysters.

NEW LEAF ACROSS

The flight of Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix, French aviators, from Paris to Brazil in two days' flying time adds another remarkable exploit to the aviation record of 1927. Leaving Le Bourget Field on Monday, the 16th inst., they flew 2700 miles in twenty-four hours to land at St.
Louis, Senegal, Africa, where they were held by a soggy field until Saturday morning, the 15th inst. Then they hopped and landed at Port Natal, Brazil, that night, after 2000 miles of flying over the tropical Atlantic, crossing the Equator in their flight.

They was one of the few successful passages of the Atlantic from east to west, and it is being justly acclaimed in Paris as a great feat. Their observations will doubtless be of much value to aviation, since every scrap of information about weather conditions over the sea at high altitudes adds to general store of knowledge which man needs to conquer the air.

Costes and Le Brix, together with their plane the Nungesser-Coll, have earned a place in aviation's hall of fame.

South has been strong enough to force its re-enactment as a principal factor in Democratic regulations at the time of nominating a Presidential candidate.

The two-thirds rule dates back to 1832, although it was not made effective on the Presidential nomination until the following convention in 1834. Jackson was nominated in 1832 by conventions and legislatures according to the custom of the time, but it was necessary to call a national convention on account of the warm battle between Van Buren, supported by Jackson, and other well-supported candidates. The two-thirds rule was adopted for that convention.

The South does not want Smith and it is a certainty already that the South will not permit the convention to select a candidate in 1928 by any other measure than the two-thirds rule if it can help it. The South, working in a convention where the two-thirds rule is still in force, can prevent the nomination of Al Smith and this it intends to do.

There will be a great battle on the rule, and it will start in propaganda form long before the convention opens. This year one can practically be certain that all who argue for the abolition of the rule favor the nomination of Al Smith, who they believe can muster this majority. There will be in opposition to abolition virtually the whole "solid South" and the line of old-timers who believe in the two-thirds rule as to a mighty Democratic tradition worthy of preservation in its own right.

AND PURPOSE

It's the space used for TRACKS that keeps the Traffic Moving

LOS ANGELES, like other cities, has a traffic problem largely because the street-users have outgrown the street space. Roadways built in 1890 are not an inch wider today, and modern traffic leaves them sadly unable to carry their load. Cities grow larger, but streets only grow older—and congested traffic is the certain result.

Indeed, traffic could hardly move at all if so much of it did not move through the space given over to car tracks. In Los Angeles, 75 per cent of all the street-users are transported by street cars. A street car occupying 400 square feet of roadway can carry 100 passengers—each passenger occupying four square feet of the street area. There is no other transportation method by which anywhere near 100 people can be carried in anything like 400 square feet of roadway. That is why the car tracks are the backbone of the traffic system.

Occupying only 2 per cent of the street space, but carrying 75 per cent of the street-users, the street cars prevent slow motion from becoming no motion. So keep an open mind toward the street car company. On it depends the movement of a city's life.

WILSHIRE MOVE DUE THURSDAY

Council Slated to Consider Starting on Widening

Committee Report Favoring Action to Be Presented

Hearings on Other Projects
Set for Same Day

The City Council is scheduled to consider next Thursday morning the proposal to start proceedings for the widening and lowering of the grade of Wilshire Boulevard, formerly Orange street, from Flower street to Figueroa street. The Council will have before it a report of the Street Opening and Widening Committee recommending that the proceedings be started.

One of the first acts of the present Council in July was to refuse to adopt the ordinance of the previous Council authorizing this improvement. The proponents of the widening have since posted a $3000 bond to repay the city for its expense in repairing the street in case the improvement is regularly protested out, should the ordinance of intention be adopted.

The hearing on the application of the Wilshire widening was postponed because of the absence from the city of Councilman Hall. He is opposed to the ordinance, but the ground is that the street is not a through traffic artery and the lowering of grade will be far in excess of the cost of the improvement.

Protests against the opening and widening of East Washington street extension, a major traffic plan, were scheduled for consideration this morning, but on account of the absence of the Council majority at San Francisco this hearing will be postponed until Thursday morning.

The present process of the widening of Washington street from Al-

She would never do it again, Mrs. Frances Lee Whitmore declared yesterday after she had related before Judge Guerin the story of her marriage to Theodore Frederick Whitmore.

This declaration, her attorney, S. E. Hahn, maintained, was considered necessary, "to keep his client from being overwhelmed with propositions after it became known that she was free."

"From the day we were married I provided him with everything he had," Mrs. Whitmore said. "I bought the groceries and I paid the rent. I even supplied him with a spending money. Everything was free for him to be eventually told me he wanted to be free himself."

Mrs. Whitmore got a divorce.

Stock Broker Wins Against Mae Murray

The request of Mae Murray, film actress, that the stockbroker's license of C. E. Toberman and the Community Securities Corporation of Hollywood be revoked, was denied yesterday by the State Corporation Department.

The commissioner held at the close of the hearing that there is no evidence that the defendants are guilty of any wrongdoing and any further inquiry for the stockbroker's license will be suspended.

Other hearings scheduled for this morning, which also will be postponed, will include a hearing to decide protests against the widening of Alessandro street from the flood control channel to Whitmore avenue, for the opening of Alessandro avenue from Vine street to Cahuenga avenue, in Hollywood, and nine hearings on the confirmation of assessments for improvements com- pleted.

REFEREES APPRAISE PARK SITE

Land to be Taken for Arroyo Seco Project Given
Value of $645,626

Referees assigned to decide on the amount of awards for land to be taken for the proposition known as Victory Park No. 2, reported to the Superior Court yesterday that in their opinions the total sum should be $645,626, according to an announcement by Deputy City Clerk Keith. The first plot, 1 acre, will be condemned for the park and the second plot is to be added, if the report of the referees is approved by the court. Members of the board sat on the report yesterday, Mr. Charles J. Kelly, O. A. Kellher and H. W. Lute.

The park project has been a source of bitter contention for a year. Repeated protests before the City Council by residents of the Highland Park and Garvanza districts, which a number of times reached the point of riot, have failed to bring an abandonment of the project. Court action also has been reported to on occasion both to halt and to continue the project.

Home owners in the Garvanza and Highland Park districts, say they will be taxed into losing their homes in order to make the project possible. City Councilmen say they believe that a real need for a park in the Arroyo Seco district exists and that the affected home owners have exaggerated the condition.

Lady's Change Purse or Gentleman's Wallet

THE WALLET is of morocco. The change purse of soft, rich ostrich. Both are cleverly made and beautifully finished. Each is equipped with a novel Bankette—a small, inconspicuous dime savings bank which slips into the pocket of the wallet or change purse. The wallet has space for banknotes, another for your driver's license, another for cards. The change purse has a snap pocket for banknotes and change. YOU can have either—without charge. Because the Bankette helps you to save consistently, we want you to have one, and will furnish either the wallet or the change purse to carry it in. It will help you to establish the saving habit.

Open an account in our savings department and you may have the Bankette and either the change purse or the wallet. The amount with which you open your account (it can be as little as $2) is of small consequence, for with the Bankette in your purse, your account will grow. But hurry! The number of wallets and change purses is limited—and everyone who sees them wants one.

IN POWER TRIALEdison Company Attacks
Bureau's RevenueSeeks to Show $1,225,000
Raised by TaxationSteam-Plant Injunction Case Resumed

A strenuous legal battle by counsel for the Southern California Edison Company to introduce evidence that $1,225,000 of the revenue estimate of the Bureau of Power and Light for the fiscal year consists of taxes, and that the harbor district is simply supplied with electricity, marked the resumption of the trial of the week of the trial before Superior Judge Tappan in which the company seeks to permanently restrain the bureau from collecting $1,225,000 in steam-powered electric stand-by plant at the harbor.

H. J. Barre, executive engineer for the Edison Company, told the company, called as an expert witness as to the supply of electricity available for the port, had gotten as far as his name and address when he was summoned for the day. He is expected to resume the stand this morning in a further effort to reveal what he has to say of the situation.

Prior to the trial of Barre, his assistant, I. H. Lecklider, was a witness, but his testimony was subpoenaed to the defense. The situation kept Judge Tappan busy making rulings, with reading of the questions over again by the court reporter and subsequent arguments.

HUGHES RECALLED

Earlier in the day D. E. Hughes, the venerable San Pedro engineer, who is credited with becoming more familiar with Los Angeles Harbor's harbor's construction and development in the thirty-five years he has been in touch with them than any other man, was called again as a witness.

He was again questioned on the subject of tide land maps produced as exhibits in the case, to definitely mark boundaries. He testified that in his observations he had found that as the tides receded the harbor lines would have extended inland rather than toward the sea, under natural conditions.

He pointed out that Deadman's land, which consisted of two acres in 1868, had become reduced to one and one-sixth acres in 1900 and to 96.75 acres in 1927.

This engineer, it is claimed, is expert on the wash of waves, combined with the digging by a small species of crab, which locates the hard pan and marks the washing.

Hughes explained that tidal readings at the harbor were conducted from 1873 until 1890 and the record was kept by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, and that since 1890 an automatic tide-reading machine had been in operation at the harbor. It was from these records, he said, that he explained that the mean high tide line was established.

The engineer, whose testimony is given credence and derivative reliance on cross-examination that the prominent jutting south from Wilmington into the harbor would not have dried out if the water had not been dried out in floods. He said his investigations show that the hard-pan comes very near the surface, being covered with sand and washings.

Some points are not more than two feet in others, compared to a depth of from twenty to fifty feet in other sections of the harbor.

COMPANY'S CONTENTION

It is the contention of the Edison Company that the erection of an electric plant inside the harbor lines which would be required for such a steam-powered plant to get sufficient salt water to cool it down, and that is a violation of the State laws giving the tidelands to the city for development of commerce, navigation and a harbor.

In regard to the methods of budget administration by the Power and Light Bureau, the company sought to show that the light revenue from the Public Library and other public projects maintained by taxation, is not revenue, but simply the reception of taxes through those agencies.

Elsie Janis Gets Detained Trunks

Eight wardrobe trunks belonging to Elsie Janis, actress, which have been held since Thursday, last, in a local express company warehouse under $4000 C.O.D. charges were released yesterday and the charges withdrawn. Legal proceedings initiated by Miss Janis to obtain possession of the wardrobe containers also have been withdrawn, she announced.

The actress, Mrs. Elsie Janis, became ill with throat trouble and was forced to leave a local stage.

Gerhard Davis said the $4000 against the actress was held by the express company for her claim against the actress for her services as transportation charges from San Francisco.

Mrs. Janis was stricken with a throat illness and her proposed return to her eastern home has been delayed until she is further improved in health.

Three Injured
in Car Crash

Three men were injured, one perhaps fatally, in the collision of two cars at the intersection of Third and Anderson streets yesterday. Jesus Lopez, 31 years of age, of 1231 Mono street, driver of one of the automobiles, according to police, sustained a fractured skull, dislocation of the brain and internal injuries and is not expected to recover.

Simon Santilli, 19, of 220 East Ninth street, and A. Gonzales, 25, of 219 North Olive street, sustained concussions of the brain and possible skull fractures and their chances of recovery are described by surgeons at the Geenberg Street Receiving Hospital as "grave." Louis P. Parker, 25, of East Forty-fifth street, driver of the other machine, police report, escaped within minor cuts and bruises.

VETERAN'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services for Louis Pariseo, Spanish War veteran who died yesterday at the Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle, will be conducted at the home tomorrow at 9 a.m. Mr. Pariseo, who was a miner in the mountains of Colorado at Salt Lake City, came to the home from that city several weeks ago. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Louis Pariseo, three brothers and three sisters. Burial will be in the Soldiers' Home Cemetery.

NEW PLEA ENTERED IN WAGY CASEMan Who Petitioned for Bankruptcy Now Asks it be Set Aside by Court

A new petition asking that a previous petition to have A. G. Wagy & Co., Julian Petroleum Corporation brothers, declared bankrupt, be set aside was filed in the U. S. Bankruptcy Court yesterday by Robert Van Norden. It was revealed last night in dispatches from the northern city. Van Norden, the petitioner, filed his first petition, asking that the brokerage firm be declared bankrupt.

The first petition, filed by Van Norden, was presented to the United States District Judge St. Sure, and Joseph Scott and H. L. Carnahan, Los Angeles attorneys were named receivers at the time of the filing of the petition in July, however, United States District Judge McCormick set aside Judge St. Sure's order, which resulted in the Julian Petroleum Company being taken into the Court of Appeals on a writ of review. The higher court refused to interfere, holding the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy courts to be exclusive of all others.

Three indictments which it was reported would be dismissed on motion of the defense, were still in effect yesterday, still in effect last night. Superior Court Judge Doran, who is to hear all cases growing out of the Julian Petroleum, was present yesterday.

That conferences between himself and the District Attorney relative to the three indictments have been held, and that the defense has been reached. The indictments were returned against a banker, broker and merchant, whose names have been withheld pending action on their cases.

Copenhagen to Have Direct Call to Greenland

Beam Wireless Service to Australia Gaining

License Period Extended to End of This Month

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Although the present Radio-Telegraph Conference in Washington is quite the thing in radio discussions this week, there are other items of general interest everywhere.

For instance, a dispatch from New York says that direct radio communication between Copenhagen and Greenland is to be established this month. The transmitting apparatus was shipped to Greenland by steamer in midsummer. It should be in use in a week or two. Soon after this time the communication has been relayed via Iceland.

Then from Washington we learn that the Danish Trade Commission, Squire, in his annual report, relates that beam wireless traffic between Australia and various European countries is increasing. The first five weeks of the new service averaged 65,000 words a week, and for the next five-week period they averaged 150,000 words a week, while the present average is 156,000 words.

From our neighbor to the south we learn that the municipal radio station in Buenos Aires is now on the air 24 hours a day, length of 1000 m. by the way, is the maximum wave allowed by the government Ministry of Marine which has direct charge of radio traffic. The station is the first to use the top wave length allotted and reception is satisfactory in the immediate locality.

When Food Disagrees

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For the year past "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neu-

CORTINA REPORT OUT

And from Washington, also, Carl Butman wires that the Radio-Telegraph Conference has practically agreed on Cortina reports on radio and wire communication. Today, in the nation's capital, recommendations will be formalized and presented by the Cortina Committee.

Continuing the digest of world news in radio, the Federal Radio Commission has written on its permanent records, "In memory of the late Col. John G. Dillenbeck, whom the art of radio communication in America owes an enduring debt for his wise counsel, his clear vision and his devoted service." Dillenbeck was the first member of the Federal Radio Commission from the Fifth Zone."
